

The Bullsheet, a forum for news, humor, and community dialogue, is funded by DCGA, stopped being funny in 2019, and is printed each day that classes are in session. Submissions must be sent before our editors shamble into the office for next day publication via e-mail to: bullsheet@denison.edu. Submissions herein solely reflect the opinions of the authors.

Edited by: James
Delivered this morning by: Clayre
vol. LXVIII / no. 95/ February 25th 2022

TENDERGATE

LATE NIGHT POP UP

Chicken Tenders reg. $9.90
(3) breaded chicken tenders with honey mustard sauce, served with french fries.

Why do I have to work for an hour in order to afford 3 chicken tenders at this school? A good airfryer, brand new, costs about $100₁ (and a serviceable one or used definitely less) also you could just straight up use your dorm oven. You can get about 24 raw chicken tenders (breaded) for $6.99 at Kroger₂. So theoretically I could sell chicken tenders at a much lower price and still come out even.

Now the exact brand that Bon Appetit uses (most likely) to purchase chicken tenders is Gordon Food Services, where you can get 10 pounds of tenders for $39.99₃. As per the back of a Tyson Foods chicken tenders box, the average tender weighs about 47g (1.7oz)₄, for those of you at home that's around 9-10 a pound. Therefore, Bon Appetit is most likely getting around 95 chicken tenders for about $40. This means that if each student is getting 3 tenders they can sell tenders to 32 students, at a price of roughly $10 per student that is a profit of somewhere around $280 (or $8.75 per student). The price of fries and watered-down honey mustard must also be taken into account, but considering you can get 30lbs of fries for $22₅, I doubt that would do much to offset profits.

Now I understand that Bon Appetit has to pay its workers and all that but I doubt y'all paying them enough to justify that much price gouging. Of course, they might also need to pay for water and electricity and rent and the boss takes a hefty slice but still...

Of course, I am doing all my research as a student with access to the internet. I do rely heavily upon approximation, so if someone with access to actual statistical modeling/a knowledge of business could look into this would be rather interesting. Bon Appetit, If you have any sort of explanation for what all is going on, I would happy to hear your point of view (after all, you are the professionals) but as it currently stands, I don't like the way the tendy crumbles.

-William Kelsey, Chicken Expert

¹ https://www.amazon.com/COSORI-One-Touch-Functions-Tempered-Suitable/dp/B0936FGLQS/ref=sr_1_6?keywords=air+fryer&qid=1645745632&sr=8-6

² https://www.kroger.com/p/perdue-chicken-breast-tenders/0007274580431?fulfillment=PICKUP&searchType=default_search

³ <https://gfsstore.com/products/748882/>

⁴ <https://www.eatthismuch.com/food/nutrition/boneless-skinless-chicken-tenderloins,99512/>

⁵ <https://gfsstore.com/products/909259/>

ROUGH AS SANDPAPER

Have you ever gone to any of the bathrooms around campus, used them, and been satisfied? Personally no, because the toilet paper is too scratchy. It has come to my attention that all of the bathrooms on campus use a certain type of toilet paper that I like to call John Wayne toilet paper. According to Urban Dictionary, John Wayne toilet paper means rough and tough and doesn't take shit off. It is also the term in which the military uses to describe the low quality toilet paper they are provided with. It has actually gotten to the point where I am buying my own toilet paper because of this monstrosity. Now I wonder whether the school knows what they are doing. It's torture to have a man's happy place be ruined by the John Wayne "TP" when the school could spend the small amount of extra dough to get something remotely better than what we are currently using. I occasionally wonder whether I'm using graphing paper to wipe or the school toilet paper. To continue, I'd like to compare the difference between a third degree sunburn and the John Wayne TP. Some say this is a war crime others say this is an equivalent to Bambi's mother leaving. I don't know about you, but that scene put me in my feels.

It is obvious from this photo that the toilet paper and the android used to take it are both the lowest of qualities.

-Jerry

MURPH'S BARS

We be runnin to Taco Bell. I forgot how to spell. This burrito's givin me hell. My booty ain't swell. Lel.

-Murph

Staff "kitchen appliances" Box

Jack "toaster" May, Senior Editor
Maggie "air fryer" Bell, Senior Editor
Betsy "coffee grinder" Wagner, Junior Editor
Ellie "fridge" Schrader, Junior Editor

.....
James "rice cooker" Whitney, Head Writer
William "electric spittoon" Kelsey, Foreign Correspondent
Blythe "microwave" Dahlem, Junior Writer
Emma "australian microwave" Rutherford, Junior Writer
Lena "stove" Hanrahan, Junior Writer
Evie "oven" Writers, Junior Water
Claire "dishwasher" Anderson, Sophomore Writer
Mick "goose juicer" Smith, Sophomore Writer

*if i were god
i would make everyone bald*

