VERY SCARY STORIES (DEN- ISON EDITION)

Jewish Bangs,
strikes again

Very Scary Stories (Denison Edition)

Well kids, it's that time of the month when "She Wolf" plays on repeat and the library brings in an 8-foot-tall plastic skeleton. In the spirit of Monstober, here are some spooky Denison conspiracies that might just keep you up at night.

The Buzzards Are Plotting a Takeover

Have you seen the way they swarm above A-Quad?! I don't need the flying monkey theme song to know that those creatures are planning the downfall of this school. Only Buzzy and Alex Miller will be spared.

Nathan Graves is Just Three Kids in a Trench Coat

First-year office? That's basically elementary school. Plus he always wears a vest outside, even when it's warm. I wanna know what this guy is really hiding.

The Red Frame Lab is Raising an Army of Capitalists

That one's just true. Ask any RFL student who tells you their plan after college is to go into "consulting."

The Burpees are Totally On Script

Have you noticed how a Burpee selects an input from the audience? That person could easily be planted! Now I may not be an expert on improv, but I have a feeling this so-called comedy made on the spot was written weeks beforehand.

Denison University Staged the Moon Landing

Buzz Aldrin and Neil Armstrong supposedly landed on the moon in 1969. That same year, Denison did major construction on the Swaysey observatory. Our astronomy building was getting more than a new dome...it was housing an international plot to fool the public. Don't believe me yet? Well put this in your pipe and smoke it: Buzz Aldrin spelled backwards is Buzzy the Buzzard. Underneath that space suit was a whole bunch of feathers!

Claire and Lily Anderson Ate their Triplet in Utero

I have known Claire and Lily for over two years and not once have I ever seen this alleged third sibling. Chances are they ate him in 2002 and now they have telepathic powers. Claire, you can wear that Wheaton College sweatshirt all you want but nobody's buying this facade.
