RESULTS!!!

Mostly A's - Oh you devil, you. You sly, sly dog. Beware of the cloaked man (interpret that as generally as you would like). The stars have a plan for you and it is already set in motion. Watch the grasses outside your window in the coming days, you will be alerted when it is time.

Mostly B's - Hello, you sweet angel. Don't believe everything you hear. Make sure to agree to every opportunity that is thrown your way, no matter how outlandish it may seem. A new business venture is in the cards for you, do not disappoint.

Mostly C's - Whoa there tiger! Chill out! Take a breath, relax, understand that the world is yours for the taking and you deserve everything whether or not it's been offered to you.

Mostly D's - Hello [HUMAN PERSON]. Follow your instincts. You've been deterred by so many in your life, it's time to show them they were wrong.

THE NEWS ON THE OOZE: SHOWER GUNK AND WHAT TO MAKE OF IT

Eleanor,
Slime Surveyor

Don't you hate it when you step into a communal shower and find it covered in mystery grime? Wouldn't you like to know what all that stuff is? Well now you can! For the low low price of no money at all, you too can be an expert in bathroom-biochemistry. Without further ado, please enjoy my guide to shower goos and what they mean for you(s).

Brown and gritty - Let's start with an easy one. In most cases, this is dirt. This can mean one of two things: the person before you was some sort of swamp monster, or they were just a little nasty. You don't have to take any immediate action for this mess, but it could be a good opportunity to read the muck-clumps and learn about your personality. If it looks like a lion, you are strong and brave. If it looks like a bird, you are smart and carefree. And if it looks like it's splattered and drying on your skin, it means you aren't very good at taking showers.

Red and sticky - Honestly, there are a few things this could be. The best way to identify it is a taste-test. If it tastes like chemicals, it's probably paint. If it's sweet and tropical, it's fruit punch. If it's salty, then you better hope you wore your shower shoes, cuz that's blood baby! If it's the last option, it means that there's a murderer on your floor. Don't panic, but it's probably best just to back out at this point. This person can and will kill again, and you don't want to be there when they do. Besides, even if it's just the police who show up, you really don't want to be caught at the scene with the victim's blood on your tongue.

Clear - This one took a long time to figure out, but it's something called "water." It is one of the most common shower substances, and, believe it or not, it's actually the reason that most people get into the shower in the first place. It is completely harmless, unless you're made of fire, which hardly anyone is. If you see water, take a minute to be mindful of its connection to your own body. Feel it pulse through your tissues. Let your fish soul awaken. Gaze towards the nearest ocean and feel it call to you. Come home. C o m e h o m e. Coooommee hoommee. . .

Green - Anything green that you find in the shower is healthy vegetables. That's just science. Absolutely none of it is mold, mildew, or moss, and it especially isn't some sort of alien goop that was planted there to make you think "Mmmm, vegetables" and eat it, resulting in your assimilation into the hivemind. There are also absolutely no aliens on the Bullsheet staff, no siree. On an unrelated note, I bet you feel pretty hungry. I bet you didn't eat enough at your last meal. You should probably put that green stuff in your mouth. You know you want to.
