We have ways of writing words phonetically.

Or - "foe-net-ikle-ee"

So I would imagine if you are going to write Parseltongue out (which has to be an invention of parselmouths, because - lets face it - snakes, as a rule, don't have hands so they couldn't have invented a written language) then you'd do it the same way :-

ach-nee-muc-narch-eee-laa-cha-theeee-aaa-sssh.

This means..... well there is no direct translation in English, but the general gist is a very vulgar insult in Parseltongue. (Note - do not say this in front of children. If the are parselmouths it is NOT something you want them repeating in the schoolyard - trust me on this).

Are wizards able to write in Parseltongue? Would it just be "hiss hiss"?
