BULLSHEET ALBUTEROL INHALER RECYCLING INITIATIVE

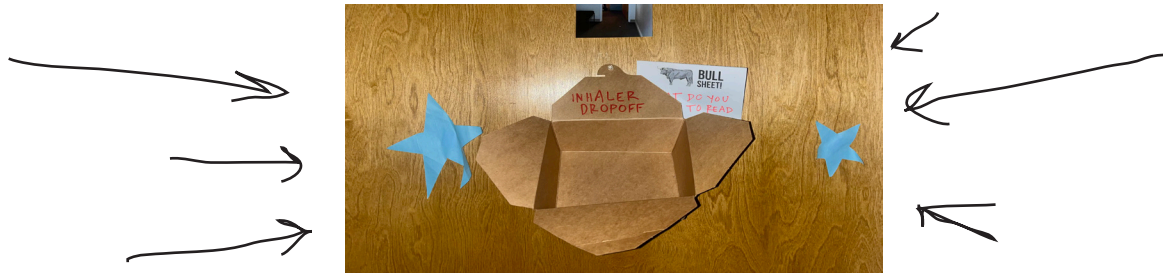

Caroline Lopez,
Out of albuterol and really needs more

In an effort to help our community, The Bullsheet will begin its Albuterol Inhaler Recycling Initiative this week.
The process is simple:

You know those pesky inhalers? The ones that the Wellness Center prescribed you when you had strep throat? You maybe used it once, and now it sits, forelorn and forgotten in your miscellaneous medicine box under your bed.

Find it.

Bring it to our office! There's a box outside labeled "INHALER DROPOFF."

Drop off your inhaler. If it has less than 20 puffs, don't bother.

You never know. Your asthmatic friends may need help combatting the price gauging of big pharma. Albuterol's like gold these days – it's really pretty. We promise to recycle anything you bring us (Into our lungs).

WHAT OUR READERS ARE SAYING

"A really wonderful initiative that the Bullsheet is starting"

"I can't believe I didn't think of it first"

"Something that could help a lot of people"
